Gecko Press is a reputable NZ publisher that find the cream of children's books from around the world. They translate them and make them available to us here down under. This title was originally published in Sweden.

Frank is alone and lonely and very sad. Friends walk away from him. He cries his tears into a pot and boils and sweetens it. A sad statement about a sad event. This book has few words and a rather open-ended finish, but evokes real emotions and in an eloquent way offers room for imagination and discussion about grief.
